Tong Ren Healing was developed by Tom Tam from his Acupuncture Practice, using the collective unconscious, Tong Ren is a form of energy therapy for restoring health and vitality. Tong Ren is based on a belief that disease is related to a blockage or blockages in the body's natural flow of CHI.

Tong Ren seeks to remove these blockages, restoring the body's natural ability to heal itself by creating repair of the nucleus of the cells, the bioelectricity, even when illnesses are chronic debilitating, or otherwise untreatable.

Because no physical contact is involved or necessary, Tong Ren is often practiced as distance healing. In a typical therapy session, the Tong Ren Therapist uses a small human anatomical model as an energetic representation of the patient, tapping on targeted points on the model with a lightweight magnetic hammer. The therapist directs CHI to blockage points corresponding to the patient's condition, opening the blockage at these points. As CHI flows, neural transmission, and hormone reception are restored, the body is then able to heal.
